

It is my understanding that the FCC is considering giving LPFM stations priority over current FM translator services. This, in my opinion, is the wrong approach. I currently listen to a national FM translator, K-LOVE. To lose this would be devastating not only to me, but to thousands of other listeners across the country. K-LOVE helps to put on local concerts that I attend, as well as encourage me on a daily basis. The best thing for me, my local area, and the nation at large, is to allow these FM translator services to continue without interruption.

Thank you,
Rob Wicall
